SEC. 5213. FINANCIAL SERVICES DE-RISKING.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The practice known as de-risking, whereby financial institutions avoid rather than manage the compliance risk making effective anti-money laundering, countering the financing of terrorism, and sanctions compliance programs, has negatively impacted the ability of nonprofit organizations to conduct lifesaving activities around the globe.
(2) It has been estimated that 2/3 of nonprofit organizations based in the United States with international activities face difficulties with financial access, most commonly the inability to send funds internationally through transparent, regulated financial channels.

(3) Without access to timely and predictable banking services, nonprofit organizations cannot carry out essential humanitarian activities that can mean life or death to those in affected communities.

(4) De-risking can ultimately drive money into less transparent channels through the carrying of cash or use of unlicensed or unregistered money service remitters, thus reducing transparency and traceability, which are critical for financial integrity, and can increase the risk of money falling into the wrong hands.

(5) Federal agencies must continue to work to address de-risking through the establishment of guidance enabling financial institutions to bank with nonprofit organizations and promoting focused and proportionate measures consistent with a risk-based approach.

(6) As the 2020 National Strategy for Combating Terrorist and Other Illicit Financing of the Department of the Treasury observes, “Treasury and interagency partners will continue to engage with charitable organizations and financial institutions to evaluate and communicate the actual risk that these organizations may be misused to support terrorism and that financial institutions apply the risk-based approach to the opening and maintenance of charity accounts, as the vast majority of U.S.-based tax exempt charitable organizations are not high risk for terrorist financing.”.

(7) The Federal Government should work cooperatively with other donor states to promote a multi-stakeholder approach to risk-sharing among governments, financial institutions, and nonprofit organizations.

(b) Sense of Congress.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) providing vital humanitarian and development assistance and protecting the integrity of the international financial system are complementary goals; and

(2) Congress supports—

(A) effective measures to stop the flow of illicit funds and promote the goals of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism and sanctions regimes;

(B) anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism and sanctions policies that do not unduly hinder or delay the efforts of legitimate humanitarian organizations in providing assistance to—

(i) meet the needs of civilians facing a humanitarian crisis, including enabling governments and humanitarian organizations to provide them with timely access to food, health, and medical care, shelter, and clean drinking water; and

(ii) prevent or alleviate human suffering, in keeping with requirements of international humanitarian law;

(C) policies that ensure that incidental, in-advertent benefits that may indirectly benefit a designated group in the course of delivering life-saving aid to civilian populations are not the primary focus of Federal Government enforcement efforts; and

(D) laws, regulations, policies, guidance, and other measures that ensure the integrity of the financial system through a risk-based approach.

(c) GAO DE-RISKING ANALYSIS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study and submit to Congress a report—

(1) evaluating the effect of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism requirements on individuals and entities, including charities, embassy accounts, money-service businesses, and correspondent banks, that—

(A) have been subject to categorical de-risking by financial institutions operating in the United States; or

(B) otherwise have difficulty accessing or maintaining—

(i) relationships in the United States financial system; or

(ii) certain financial services in the United States, including opening and keeping open an account;

(2) evaluating the consequences of financial institutions de-risking entire categories of relationships with the individuals and entities described in paragraph (1); and
(3) identifying options for financial institutions handling transactions or accounts for high-risk categories of clients and for minimizing the negative effects of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism requirements on the individuals and entities described in paragraph (1) without compromising the effectiveness of Federal anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism requirements.

(d) REVIEW OF DE-RISKING.—

(1) DEFINITION.—In this subsection, the term “de-risking” means an action taken by a financial institution to terminate or restrict a business relationship with a customer, or a category of customers, rather than manage the risk associated with that relationship consistent with risk-based supervisory or regulatory requirements.

(2) REVIEW.—Upon completion of the analysis required under subsection (c), the Secretary, in consultation with the Federal functional regulators, State bank supervisors, State credit union supervisors, appropriate public and private sector stakeholders, and other appropriate parties, shall—

(A) undertake a formal review of the financial institution reporting requirements, as in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, including the processes used to submit reports under the Bank Secrecy Act, regulations implementing the Bank Secrecy Act, and related guidance; and

(B) propose changes to those requirements described in paragraph (1) to reduce any unnecessarily burdensome regulatory requirements and ensure that the information provided fulfills the purpose described in section 5311 of title 31, United States Code, as amended by this division.

(3) CONTENTS.—The review required under paragraph (2) shall—

(A) rely substantially on information obtained through the de-risking analyses conducted by the Comptroller General of the United States; and

(B) consider—

(i) any adverse consequence of financial institutions de-risking entire categories of relationships, including charities, embassy accounts, money services businesses, as defined in section 1010.100 of title 31, Code of Federal Regulations, agents of the financial institutions, countries, international and domestic regions, and respondent banks;

(ii) the reasons why financial institutions are engaging in de-risking;

(iii) the association with and effects of de-risking on money laundering and financial crime actors and activities;

(iv) the most appropriate ways to promote financial inclusion, particularly with respect to developing countries, while maintaining compliance with the Bank Secrecy Act, including an assessment of policy options to—

(I) more effectively tailor Federal actions and penalties to the size of foreign financial institutions and any capacity limitations of foreign governments; and

(II) reduce compliance costs that may lead to the adverse consequences described in clause (i);

(v) formal and informal feedback provided by examiners that may have led to de-risking;
(vi) the relationship between resources dedicated to compliance and overall sophistication of compliance efforts at entities that may be experiencing de-risking versus those that have not experienced de-risking;
(vii) any best practices from the private sector that facilitate correspondent bank relationships; and (viii) any other matter that the Secretary determines is appropriate.

(4) Strategy on de-risking.—Upon the completion of the review required under this subsection, the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Federal functional regulators, State bank supervisors, State credit union supervisors, appropriate public and private sector stakeholders, and other appropriate parties, shall develop a strategy to reduce de-risking and adverse consequences related to de-risking.

(5) Report.—Not later than 1 year after the completion of the review required under this subsection, the Secretary shall submit to Congress a report containing—
(A) all findings and determinations made in carrying out the review; and
(B) the strategy developed under paragraph (4).

(A) to ensure the Department of the Treasury provides, on a continuing basis, for appropriate safeguards to protect the financial system from threats, including money laundering and the financing of terrorism and proliferation, to national security posed by various forms of financial crime;

(B) to ensure that those provisions will continue to require certain reports or records that are highly useful in countering financial crime; and

(C) to identify those regulations and guidance that—(i) may be outdated, redundant, or otherwise do not promote a risk-based anti-money laundering compliance and countering the financing of terrorism regime for financial institutions; or

(ii) do not conform with the commitments of the United States to meet international standards to combat money laundering, financing of terrorism, serious tax fraud, or other financial crimes; and

(2) make appropriate changes to the regulations and guidance described in paragraph (1) to improve, as appropriate, the efficiency of those provisions.

(b) Public Comment.—The Secretary shall solicit public comment as part of the review required under subsection (a).

Congress finds the following:

1. More than 2,000,000 corporations and limited liability companies are being formed under the laws of the States each year.

2. Most or all States do not require information about the beneficial owners of the corporations, limited liability companies, or other similar entities formed under the laws of the State.
(3) Malign actors seek to conceal their ownership of corporations, limited liability companies, or other similar entities in the United States to facilitate illicit activity, including money laundering, the financing of terrorism, proliferation financing, serious tax fraud, human and drug trafficking, counterfeiting, piracy, securities fraud, financial fraud, and acts of foreign corruption, harming the national security interests of the United States and allies of the United States.

(4) Money launderers and others involved in commercial activity intentionally conduct transactions through corporate structures in order to evade detection, and may layer such structures, much like Russian nesting “Matryoshka” dolls, across various secretive jurisdictions such that each time an investigator obtains ownership records for a domestic or foreign entity, the newly identified entity is yet another corporate entity, necessitating a repeat of the same process.

(5) National security, intelligence, and law enforcement investigations have been consistently impeded by an inability to reliably and promptly obtain information identifying the individuals who ultimately own corporations, limited liability companies, or other similar entities suspected of engaging in illicit activity, as documented in reports and testimony by officials from the Department of Justice, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of the Treasury, the Government Accountability Office, and other agencies.

(6) In July 2006, the leading international anti-money laundering standard-setting body, the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering (in this section referred to as “FATF”), of which the United States is a member, issued a report that criticized the United States for failing to comply with a FATF standard on the need to collect beneficial ownership information and urged the United States to correct this deficiency by July 2008.

(7) In December 2016, FATF issued another evaluation of the United States, which found that little progress had been made over the last 10 years to address this problem. FATF identified the “[l]ack of timely access to adequate, accurate and current beneficial ownership (BO) information” as a “fundamental gap[]” in efforts of the United States to counter money laundering and the financing of terrorism.
(8) In contrast to practices in the United States, all 27 countries in the European Union are required to have corporate registries that include beneficial ownership information. The United Kingdom, its 3 crown dependencies, and 14 overseas territories also require such registries.

(9) According to the 2020 National Strategy for Combating Terrorist and other Illicit Finance issued by the Department of the Treasury, “Misuse of legal entities to hide a criminal beneficial owner or illegal source of funds continues to be a common, if not the dominant, feature of illicit finance schemes, especially those involving money laundering, predicate offences, tax evasion, and proliferation financing.”.

(10) Federal legislation providing for the collection of beneficial ownership information for corporations, limited liability companies, or other similar entities formed under the laws of the States is needed to—

(A) set a clear, Federal standard for incorporation practices;

(B) protect vital Unites States national security interests;
(C) protect interstate and foreign commerce;

(D) better enable critical national security, intelligence, and law enforcement efforts to counter money laundering, the financing of terrorism, and other illicit activity; and

(E) bring the United States into compliance with international anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism standards.

SEC. 5402. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) beneficial ownership information collected under the amendments made by this title is sensitive information and will be directly available only to authorized government authorities, subject to effective safeguards and controls, to—

(A) facilitate important national security, intelligence, and law enforcement activities; and

(B) confirm beneficial ownership information provided to financial institutions to facilitate the compliance of the institutions with customer due-diligence requirements under applicable law;
(2) consistent with applicable law, the Secretary of the Treasury shall—

(A) maintain the information described in paragraph (1) in a secure, nonpublic database, using information security methods and techniques that are appropriate to protect nonclassified information systems at the highest security level; and

(B) take all steps, including regular auditing, to ensure that government authorities accessing beneficial ownership information do so only for authorized purposes consistent with this section; and

(3) in prescribing regulations to provide for the reporting of beneficial ownership information, the Secretary shall, to the greatest extent practicable consistent with the purposes of this title—

(A) seek to minimize burdens on reporting companies associated with the collection of beneficial ownership information;

(B) provide clarity to reporting companies concerning the identification of their beneficial ownership; and

(C) collect information in a form and manner that is reasonably designed to generate a 149 database that is highly useful to national security, intelligence, and law enforcement agencies, and Federal functional regulators.

SEC. 5504. GAO STUDY ON FIGHTING ILLICIT NETWORKS AND DETECTING HUMAN TRAFFICKING AND DRUG TRAFFICKING.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) According to the Drug Enforcement Administration 2018 National Drug Threat Assessment, transnational criminal organizations are increasingly using virtual currencies.

(2) In the 2015 National Money Laundering
Risk Assessment, the Department of the Treasury has recognized, “The development of virtual curcurrencies is an attempt to meet a legitimate market demand. According to a Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago economist, U.S. consumers want payment options that are versatile and that provide immediate finality. No U.S. payment method meets that description, although cash may come closest. Virtual currencies can mimic cash’s immediate finality and anonymity and are more versatile than cash for online and cross-border transactions, making virtual currencies vulnerable for illicit transactions.”.

(3) In the 2018 National Money Laundering
Risk Assessment, the Department of the Treasury concluded, “To the extent that virtual currencies are able to provide the same level of anonymity as physical cash, they create an even greater risk because virtual currencies can be transmitted and used globally. In addition to providing another means to pay for contraband or illicit services, virtual currencies also are now being used in the layering stage of money laundering to disguise the origin of illicit proceeds.”.

(4) Virtual currencies may be increasingly used, facilitated by online marketplaces, to pay for goods and services associated with human trafficking and drug trafficking.

(5) Online marketplaces, including the dark web, are becoming a prominent platform to buy, sell, and advertise for illicit goods and services associated with human trafficking and drug trafficking.

(6) According to the International Labour Organization, in 2016, 4,800,000 people in the world were victims of forced sexual exploitation, and in 2014, the global profit from commercial sexual exploitation was $99,000,000,000.

(7) In 2016, within the United States, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimated that there were 64,000 deaths related to drug overdose, and the most severe increase in drug overdoses were those associated with synthetic opioids, including fentanyl and fentanyl analogs, which amounted to over 20,000 overdose deaths.

(8) According to 2018 National Money Laundering Risk Assessment, an estimated $100,000,000,000 is generated annually from United States drug trafficking sales.

(9) Illegal fentanyl in the United States originates primarily from China, and it is readily available to purchase through online marketplaces.

(b) DEFINITION OF HUMAN TRAFFICKING.—In this section, the term “human trafficking” has the meaning given the term “severe forms of trafficking in persons”

(c) GAO Study.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study on how a range of payment systems and methods, including virtual currencies in online marketplaces, are used to facilitate human trafficking and drug trafficking, which shall consider—

(1) how online marketplaces, including the dark web, may be used as platforms to buy, sell, or facilitate the financing of goods or services associated with human trafficking or drug trafficking, specifically, opioids and synthetic opioids, including fentanyl, fentanyl analogs, and any precursor chemical associated with manufacturing fentanyl or fentanyl analogs, destined for, originating from, or within the United States;

(2) how financial payment methods, including virtual currencies and peer-to-peer mobile payment services, may be utilized by online marketplaces to facilitate the buying, selling, or financing of goods and services associated with human trafficking or drug trafficking destined for, originating from, or within the United States;
(3) how virtual currencies may be used to facilitate the buying, selling, or financing of goods and services associated with human trafficking or drug trafficking, destined for, originating from, or within the United States, when an online platform is not otherwise involved;

(4) how illicit funds that have been transmitted online and through virtual currencies are repatriated into the formal banking system of the United States through money laundering or other means;

(5) the participants, including state and non-state actors, throughout the entire supply chain that may participate in or benefit from the buying, selling, or financing of goods and services associated with human trafficking or drug trafficking, including through online marketplaces or using virtual currencies, destined for, originating from, or within the United States;

(6) Federal and State agency efforts to impede the buying, selling, or financing of goods and services associated with human trafficking or drug trafficking destined for, originating from, or within the United States, including efforts to prevent the proceeds from human trafficking or drug trafficking from entering the United States banking system;
(7) how virtual currencies and their underlying technologies can be used to detect and deter these illicit activities; and

(8) to what extent immutability and traceability of virtual currencies can contribute to the tracking and prosecution of illicit funding.

(d) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives a report—
